1. Introduction

Child trafficking is a global business that targets and victimises the most vulnerable children for transportation, abuse and exploitation across the world. It is a largely hidden problem and is often described as a form of modern-day slavery. The children involved are in no way responsible for their predicament, having been coerced, bribed or forced into, and unable to escape from, the control of traffickers.

The effect of trafficking on children is wide-reaching; many will experience significant harm as a result of their situation, and outcomes for them may be extremely poor as a result of lack of proper care or access to universal services such as health and education as traffickers seek to avoid contact with the authorities.

At the end of 2008 the UK government ratified the Council of Europe Convention on Action Against Trafficking in Human beings, following the publication of the UK Action Plan on Tackling Human Trafficking in 2007. The Council of Europe Convention came into effect in the UK on 1st April 2009 and has important implications for the identification and recording of suspected trafficking victims.

Because tackling trafficking requires a multi-agency response at all levels, Inverclyde Child Protection Committee has adopted this protocol, based on the Glasgow Child Protection Committee Model which was adopted by Scottish Government in 2013. It will provide information and guidance to all members of the children’s workforce in Inverclyde so that professionals and others are able to identify trafficked children and make appropriate referrals so that victims can receive protection and support. This guidance is supported by the Scottish Government publication Safeguarding Children in Scotland Who May Have Been Trafficked, Scottish Government National Guidance for Child Protection in Scotland 2014, and the London Safeguarding Children Board toolkit and Guidance which may provide additional advice and guidance if required.

For a brief overview of the research context of child trafficking see Appendix 1.

2. Scope and Purpose of Guidance

For the purpose of this guidance, a ‘child’ is a person under the age of 18 as defined by the Palermo Protocol to Prevent, Suppress and Punish Trafficking in Persons, Especially Women and Children.

Working with children and young people who are or have been involved in child trafficking is a complex area and at the moment there is very little theoretical understanding of the phenomenon or evidence regarding its prevalence in Scotland.

The purpose of this guidance is to present a strategic inter agency framework to respond to the need to protect children and young people who are at risk of child trafficking in the context of current available evidence and the policy initiatives.

This protocol is designed as practice guidance to be read in conjunction with the Scottish Government National Child Protection Guidance in Scotland and other relevant national and international papers. West of Scotland Multiagency Child Protection Procedures remain the primary procedures for child protection investigations. The identification, or not, of child trafficking victims should not preclude or override any child protection investigations.

The aim of this guidance is to -

- Raise awareness of child trafficking within agencies
- Support the investigation and prosecution of those who coerce, exploit and abuse children
- Raise awareness of indicators of child trafficking
- Facilitate a consistent response and approach to children and young people involved in trafficking.
- Support and encourage staff from all agencies in Inverclyde to work collaboratively in developing and delivering appropriate and effective services to individual children and young people with experience of child trafficking.

3. Definitions

Human trafficking is a process that is a combination of three basic components:

- Movement - (including within the UK – referred to as Internal trafficking) recruitment, transportation, transfer, harbouring or receipt of persons.
- Control - threat, use of force, coercion, abduction, fraud, deception, abuse of power or vulnerability, or the giving of payments or benefits to a person in control of the victim
- Purpose – exploitation of a person, which includes prostitution and other sexual exploitation, forced labour, slavery or similar practices, and the removal of organs

An international definition for trafficking contained in article 3 of the Palermo Protocol to Prevent, Suppress and Punish Trafficking in Persons, Especially Women and Children (2000)\(^6\) has now been widely accepted across the world as the basis for identifying and working with the victims of trafficking.

(a) “Trafficking of persons” shall mean the recruitment, transportation, transfer, harbouring or receipt of persons, by means of the threat or use of force or other forms of coercion, of abduction, of fraud, of deception of the abuse of power or of a position of vulnerability or of the giving or receiving of payments or benefits to obtain the consent of a person having control over another person, for the purpose of exploitation. Exploitation shall include, at a minimum, the exploitation of the prostitution of others or other forms of sexual exploitation, forced labour or services, slavery or practices similar to slavery, servitude or the removal of organs.

(b) The consent of a victim of trafficking in persons to the intended exploitation set forth in sub-paragraph (a) of this article shall be irrelevant where any of the means set forth in sub-paragraph (a) have been used.

(c) The recruitment, transportation, transfer, harbouring or receipt of a child for the purpose of exploitation shall be considered “trafficking in persons” even if this does not involve any of the means set forth in subparagraph (a) of this article

(d) “Child” shall mean any person under eighteen years if age

Article 6(4) focuses on the support provided to victims of trafficking stating that:

Each state party shall take into account, in applying the provisions of this article, the age, gender and special needs of victims of trafficking in persons, in particular the special needs of children, including appropriate housing, education and care.

The Palermo Protocol establishes children as a special case and any child found to have been transported for exploitation is considered to be a victim of trafficking, whether or not they have been deceived, because it is not considered possible for children to give informed consent. The distinction between trafficking and smuggling is also considered an important one in determining if a child has been trafficked, as smuggling is taken to mean that arrangements are consensual and that a smuggler has paid to help people enter the country illegally, after which there is no longer a relationship and no exploitation. However, there are concerns that in respect of the abuse of children and at the front line of child care and protection work the distinction between trafficking and smuggling is often blurred – research has highlighted that some children have been abused on their journeys to Scotland after paying smugglers to get them to the UK.7

The UN High Commissioner for Human Rights also recognises that trafficked children have specific needs as a consequence of age:

Children who are victims of trafficking shall be identified as such. Their best interests shall be considered paramount at all time. Child victims of trafficking shall be provided with appropriate assistance and protection. Full account shall be taken of their special vulnerabilities and needs (UNHCHR 2002, principle 10)8

4. Legal Framework

The UK is a signatory to the UN Convention Against Transnational Organised Crime, including the Palermo Protocol that deals specifically with the trafficking of children, and the European Convention on Action Against Trafficking in Human Beings. These international agreements provide the framework for inter-government action to tackle trafficking and are the basis of the UK’s national policy.

The European convention contains specific provisions for children, and Human Trafficking; The Government’s Strategy (2011)\(^9\) has a chapter on proposals to tackle the exploitation of children. For the purposes of provisions to meet the needs of trafficking victims a child is defined as any person under the age of 18 years.

UK legislation and policy makes it clear that trafficking is both a crime and a violation of human rights, and the action plan is focused both on the disruption and reduction of trafficking and providing support for adult and child victims. The UK strategy proposes a comprehensive approach to tackling trafficking:

- commitment to improving victim care arrangements
- focuses on disrupting trafficking networks before they reach the UK
- establishes a basis for smarter multi-agency action at the border
- aims to improve coordination of our law enforcement efforts in the UK
- seeks to strengthen intelligence-gathering and -sharing through the new National Crime Agency
- places emphasis on raising awareness of child trafficking and ensuring child victims are safeguarded and protected from re-trafficking

Delivery of the strategy is a multi-agency concern between central and local government, law enforcement agencies and voluntary and community groups. Child Protection Committees in Scotland are responsible for co-ordinating services and responses in terms of child trafficking victims at a local level.

The UK action plan recognises that children who have been trafficked are particularly vulnerable and will have very specific needs, and that their care, protection and support will be crucial in enabling them to recover from their experiences and return to a normal life.

All trafficked children are entitled to the same level of care and protection and to have their welfare safeguarded and promoted as those normally resident in the UK, regardless of their immigration status.

Trafficking legislation and guidance is not limited to children and if there are concerns about individuals aged 18 plus appropriate action should be taken by adult services. Adult protection procedures should be considered. In Glasgow the TARA project has substantial experience of working with women who have been trafficked – they can be contacted on 0141 276 7724 for advice.

The Council of Europe Convention on Action Against Trafficking in Human Beings ensures that each signatory country has mechanisms in place – The National Referral Mechanism (NRM) – for identifying and recording cases of child trafficking (Appendix 2). This formal procedure for assessing and recording all trafficking cases, including children, became operational on 1 April 2009. From this date new arrangements came into force to allow all cases of human trafficking to be referred by frontline agencies for assessment by designated Competent Authorities. In the UK the competent authorities are a central UK Human Trafficking Centre (UKHTC), part of the Organised Crime Command within the National Crime Agency, and the UK Visas and Immigration (formerly UKBA) for cases of immigration and asylum.

A referral to the NRM does not require a criminal level of ‘evidence’ as a reasonable grounds decision by the Competent Authority can be made where there are suspicions and reasonable grounds to believe that a child has been trafficked. A conclusive decision is made when it is believed that on the ‘balance of probabilities’ a child has been trafficked.

A Child Trafficking Assessment (CTA) focussing purely on trafficking concerns has been designed by Glasgow CPC and adopted by Inverclyde CPC.

The CTA should be completed by social work / police for all suspected child trafficking victims in conjunction with the UK Visas and Immigration (formerly UKBA) where asylum / immigration issues are also apparent. The CTA can be found in Appendix 3.

As child trafficking is child abuse, social workers are responsible for co-ordinating the completion of the CTA and a NRM report where appropriate, in conjunction with the police and incorporating information from partner agencies. They must liaise with the Head of Children and Families and Criminal Justice Services to undertake this.

Age Assessment

The age of potential victims of trafficking may be contested and they may have no formal identification to confirm their age. Guidance on undertaking an age assessment has been produced by Glasgow City Council and the Refugee Council and can be accessed at http://www.scottishrefugeecouncil.org.uk/news_and_events/latest_news/1725_scottish_refugee_council_launches_guidance_to_help_social_workers_assess_age_of_young_people_seeking_asylum

An age assessment should be undertaken by two social workers who are familiar with the guidance with an advocate and an interpreter if required (for details see Section 7 Useful Contacts).

NB it can take up to 3x 1hour sessions, with interview dates set a number of days apart, to complete an age assessment.

6. Referring children

Whenever an agency or professional have concerns that a child they are in contact with is, or may have been, trafficked they should initially consult the trafficking indicator matrix (see Appendix 2) and /or contact The Duty Senior Social Worker in Social Work Services or the police. The Duty Senior Social Worker will notify the Head of Children and Families and Criminal Justice Services on the circumstances when a referral is received. Where their initial assessment indicates there are grounds to believe the child may have been trafficked, the actions noted below should be followed.

Agencies and individuals should bear in mind that it is essential to take timely and decisive action where child trafficking is suspected because of the risk of the child being moved.

Often agencies would be expected to obtain the consent of the child’s parent or carer regarding any referral. However, in cases where the child may be trafficked, it is possible that their carer is involved in the trafficking or exploitation and seeking their consent could put the child at further risk or lead to their being moved elsewhere.

It is therefore recommended that unless there is clear evidence that seeking consent would in no way harm the child, referring agencies should not seek the carer’s consent or consult with parents / carers at the initial stage.

Recognising the child protection implications of trafficking, Social Work Services and the police will be the lead agencies for completing the assessment and co-ordinating all child referrals to the Competent Authority. All relevant agencies will be expected to contribute information to the assessment following their initial referral to police / social work.

While the following process has been agreed for suspected child trafficking cases the multi-agency child protection procedures remain the primary guidance for the protection of children.

- Where a child / young person is suspected or is known to have been trafficked the child’s safety is paramount and all necessary actions and procedures should be followed to ensure they are protected.

- Options for accommodation should be considered and may include residential children’s unit or homeless accommodation (if the age of the victims is contested and they are thought to be over 18). A Child Protection Order may be required to secure a placement and consideration should be given to whether the young person meets the criteria for secure accommodation given the risk of harm should they flee with traffickers (either willingly or under duress).

- Agencies and / or individuals should not wait until a child discloses, agrees or perceives they have been trafficked to initiate procedures. Research to date indicates children, apart from being threatened to remain silent, often are not aware they are victims of trafficking.

- Where there are suspicions about trafficking a referral should be made to social work or to the Police Scotland Concern Management Hub (Renfrewshire and Inverclyde).
A Child Protection Case Discussion or Planning Meeting should be convened depending on the circumstances. In addition to usual agencies a member of the UK Visas and Immigration (formerly UKBA) should also be invited if there appear to be immigration / asylum issues.

- It should be remembered that all information shared at a child protection case conference or planning meeting is for the purposes of child protection. Information gathered or shared should not be used to progress immigration issues.

- A Risk Indicator Matrix and Child Trafficking Assessment (CTA) should be completed by social work / police prior to the case discussion. It is likely there may not be substantial amounts of information at this initial stage (international agencies and organisations may need to be consulted during the assessment stage)

- The Case Discussion / Planning Meeting should consider ongoing risks, agree broad protection actions, consider the need for a multi-agency response and determine the immediate action required including establishing a core group if required.

- The Case Discussion / Planning Meeting will also agree if the case requires to be referred to the Competent Authority through the completion of a National Referral Mechanism form. The Head of Children and Families and Criminal Justice Services or the Police will be responsible for making the referral.

- Referrals can be made immediately to the Competent Authority if it is clear that children have been trafficked, before a full assessment is completed or a case discussion called. However in such cases it is the child protection procedures which should be paramount and any concerns should always be made to the senior social worker on duty for children and families or the police Concern Management Hub.

- The Competent Authority will contact the Head of Children and Families and Criminal Justice Services with a decision, and the worker will be informed of this (see www.nca.org.uk for further information). It may be that the Competent Authority requires additional information and / or further discussion before reaching a decision.

NB where children are not assessed as being trafficking cases by the Competent Authority there may still be child protection concerns. The possibility of trafficking should not be dismissed at this point as it may be that further information becomes apparent in the succeeding months.

- All usual child protection or GIRFEC procedures should follow an NRM referral and the trafficking assessment should not replace a full child protection investigation and a comprehensive assessment of a child’s needs.

A summary of the process is provided in a flow-chart format in Appendix 4.

6.1 Possible indicators of child trafficking

The attached trafficking indicator matrix (see Appendix 2) is not a validated assessment of actual, or risk of, trafficking. It is based on present best available information as to what factors in a child’s circumstances may lead to the belief a child has been trafficked. It should not replace a comprehensive child protection or IAF / GIRFEC assessment.
As the two prerequisite factors for child trafficking are movement and exploitation this matrix has been adapted following Scottish research and colour coded to aid decision-making and to inform discussions. If exploitation (red E) and movement (green M) indicators are present a child trafficking assessment (CTA) should be undertaken and a referral to the National Referral Mechanism seriously considered. Contact should also be made immediately with the senior social worker on duty for children and families and/or the police Concern Management Hub.

The following additional indicators were also identified as those most common in children referred to the Competent Authority in Glasgow. The presence of any of these indicators should also trigger further investigation and a possible completion of a CTA, see appendix 3.

- Socially isolated – lack of positive, meaningful relationships in child’s life
- Psychological – indications of trauma or numbing
- Exhibits self-assurance, maturity and self-confidence not expected in a child of such age
- Not registered with or attended a GP practice
- Not enrolled in school
- Cared for by adult/s who are not their parents and quality of relationship is not good
- Appropriate adult is not an immediate family member (parent/sibling)

The matrix is not an exhaustive list of factors and other concerns may be present. For UK national children especially movement may involve that between and within cities, between accommodation, places of abuse within a city and movement between different people.

The indicators may apply to both UK nationals and/or migrant children and to both boys and girls and should be kept in mind when working with children when making an initial assessment. They are not questions to be directly asking children at the initial stage of enquiry.

The indicators do not replace child protection investigations and the presence, or otherwise, of trafficking suspicions should not preclude the standard child protection procedures being implemented.

Appendix 1  Research Context – A brief overview

The illegal trading of people is a global problem, thought to be the third largest illegal trade after drugs and weapons trafficking. Globalisation has contributed to the growth of trafficking, and due to the fact humans can be sold it is comparatively low risk with high rewards, making it a profitable activity for traffickers.

The US Dept. of State estimates that 800,000 people are trafficked across national borders annually, nearly 50% of these being children. There are no clear estimates about the numbers of children trafficked around the world, the ILO estimate 1.2 million children are trafficked annually and UNICEF describe the numbers as enormous. While in Western Europe women are the most numerous victims, globally children constitute the largest numbers.

Throughout the world children are trafficked for numerous purposes within and between countries and continents. While exploitation varies between different parts of the world children trafficked for one type of labour are often sold into another making simple categorisation problematic.

Children in Scotland have been identified as being exploited for:

- child labour e.g. cannabis farms
- debt bondage
- domestic servitude
- begging
- benefit fraud
- drug trafficking / decoys
- illegal adoptions
- forced / illegal marriage
- sexual abuse and
- sexual exploitation

Worldwide there are also documented cases of exploitation in relation to organ donations, use in sport and military conscription.

5.1 Child trafficking in the UK

The United Kingdom is considered a high risk destination country for victims of human trafficking and a number of case studies and data collection exercises have documented the existence of potential child trafficking cases into and out of the country. These studies cannot provide confirmed numbers of trafficked or at risk children, but they do begin to quantify the problem. Child Exploitation and Online Protection Centre studies in 2007 and 2009 have identified over 600 children as fitting the trafficking profile in the UK. By the end of 2010 305 children had been referred to the UK Human Trafficking Centre as suspected victims of trafficking (www.soca.org.uk).

The limited research that has been commissioned in the UK has reached some consensus that trafficking is a growing phenomenon requiring a co-ordinated response, involving in the first instance research, intelligence, awareness raising and training on a multi-agency level. There is insufficient robust information about the prevalence of child trafficking in the UK and it is clear that knowledge and understanding remains at an early stage, especially so in Scotland.

5.2 Child trafficking in Scotland

The extent and nature of child trafficking in Scotland is largely unknown, although a report by the Children’s Commissioner in 2011 attempted to quantify the issue across the country, identifying at least 83 potential victims. Research commissioned by the Child Protection Committee in Glasgow investigated the prevalence of child trafficking victims amongst the unaccompanied asylum seeking children population. This identified that nearly a quarter of unaccompanied asylum seeking children in the city had probably been trafficked. Follow on work interviewing front line practitioners and monitoring referrals to the child protection team indicated that there have been nearly 100 children referred to the child protection team following concerns about trafficking. However, it remains unknown if these cases identified are the ‘tip of the iceberg’ or the extent of the issue. Glasgow is not the only place in Scotland likely to be experiencing issues regarding children who have been trafficked as it is likely to affect urban as well as rural areas across Scotland.

TRAFFICKING ASSESSMENT

BEFORE COMPLETING THIS FORM, IF YOU BELIEVE THIS CHILD IS AT IMMINENT RISK OF HARM REFER TO YOUR LOCAL CHILD PROTECTION PROCEDURES TO TAKE APPROPRIATE SAFEGUARDING ACTIONS. (see section 7, Safeguarding Children in Scotland who may have been Trafficked).

PURPOSE

This multi-agency assessment and referral form is designed to assist practitioners (Children’s Services, Law Enforcement) in both:

- Identifying and assessing the needs of a child who is suspected of being trafficked and the continuing risks they may face and
- Referring their case to the competent authority and other relevant agencies. (lead professionals or their equivalent in local authority social work departments refer to competent authority).

The competent authority assist in regularising the child immigration status should this be necessary in accordance with the council of Europe convention on Action against Human Trafficking and recording their case within the central UK database on victims of trafficking. It is therefore important that once your agency has completed the form a copy is immediately to the UKHTC.

This assessment should be undertaken in line with the Safeguarding Children in Scotland who may have been Trafficked guidance.

While undertaking the assessment, please remember these children may be traumatised, in fear of adults or people in authority.

1. Be sensitive and build trust.
2. Avoid question and answer process.
3. Be aware that the child may be fearful of disclosing information due to threats of direct harm to the child or their family.
4. Please ensure child’s mobile phone is turned off during the interview as it may be used as a method of control by the adult.
5. Be mindful of interviewing child/young person in presence of an individual who may be involved in trafficking.
6. Only use authorised/registered interpreters.

GUIDANCE

Guidance: Completing the Trafficking Assessment Tab

References:-

- Safeguarding Children in Scotland who may have been Trafficked. This provides detailed advice for practitioners from all agencies on how to respond to children who they suspect have been trafficked.
UK trafficking legislation and guidance relevant to trafficked and exploited children includes:

- Children (Scotland) Act 1995
- The Nationality, Immigration and Asylum Act 2002.
- Criminal Justice (Scotland) Act 2003
- Protection of Children and Prevention of Sexual Offences (Scotland) Act 2005

UK Offences of Trafficking

- The Criminal Justice (Scotland) Act 2003 introduced a specific statutory offence of trafficking a person for the purpose of sexual exploitation. The maximum penalty on conviction on indictment is 14 years imprisonment. An offence of 'trafficking for exploitation', which covers non-sexual exploitation, including trafficking for forced labour and the removal of organs, is contained in the Asylum and Immigration (Treatment of Claimants, etc.) Act 2004.

- The trafficking offences contained in the Criminal Justice (Scotland) Act 2003 and the Asylum and Immigration (Treatment of Claimants, etc.) Act 2004 applies equally to the trafficking of children and adults. In addition, the Protection of Children and Prevention of Sexual Offences (Scotland) Act 2005 introduced new offences relating to the abuse of children through prostitution and pornography which are intended to protect children under the age of 18. These cover a range of offences, including paying for the sexual services of a child, for which the maximum penalty ranges from seven years to fourteen years imprisonment, depending on the age of the child; and causing, facilitating or controlling the commercial sexual exploitation of a child in prostitution or pornography, for which the maximum penalty is 14 years imprisonment.

- The offences of trafficking for exploitation or for sexual exploitation are included as lifestyle offences under the Proceeds of Crime Act 2002, which means that a conviction for these offences may be followed by an order for the payment of the proceeds of those crimes and assets may be seized. In addition, Scottish Ministers also have powers to recover property obtained through such unlawful conduct even if there has been no criminal prosecution.

International Trafficking legislation relevant to trafficked and exploited children include:

In 2000 Human Trafficking was recognised under international law through the United Nations Protocol to prevent, suppress and punish trafficking in persons, especially women and children (the ‘Palermo Protocol’), ratified by the UK in 2006. The protocol essentially defines child trafficking as:

- The recruitments, transportation, transfer harbouring or receipt of a child for the purpose of exploitation.
- The child is anyone under 18 years.
- It is not considered possible for children to give informed consent to being trafficked. Any child transported for exploitative reasons is considered to be a trafficking victim – whether or not they have been subjected to threats, force coercion, abduction or fraud. Even when a child understands what has happened they may still appear to submit willingly to what they believe to be the will of their parents or caregiver in their home country.
• Trafficking affects almost all parts of the United Kingdom. Trafficking can be into, within and out of the United Kingdom. Trafficking within United Kingdom is Domestic and Internal Trafficking.

• Trafficking can involve children from any country, including children both born and raised in the UK (UK Nationals) e.g. Young Women and Boys Trafficked domestically into prostitution from one UK city to another.

• The exploitation of trafficked children may be progressive. Children trafficked for domestic work may be later vulnerable to prostitution or children initially trafficked for prostitution may be resold.

• Children from different countries, communities and cultures may be particularly vulnerable to specific forms of exploitation (e.g. the Trafficking of Eastern European young women into prostitution). These patterns can shift over time as traffickers ‘wise up’ to new immigration or safeguarding anti-trafficking measures.

The Council of Europe Convention of Action Against Trafficking in Human Beings was signed by the UK Government in 2007. The convention will be bound by the terms of the Convention by April 2009.

Under this convention the UK Government is obliged to “provide its competent authorities with persons who are trained and qualified in preventing and combating trafficking in human beings, in identifying and helping victims, including children”. It further states that when “the age if victim is uncertain and there are reasons to believe that the victim is a child, he or she shall be presumed to be a child and shall be accorded special measures pending verification of his/her age”. The Convention also makes provisions that oblige the Government to issue a temporary resident permit when there are “reasonable grounds to believe that the person concerned may be victim”. The UK Government, as part of its implementation plan is developing a National Referral Mechanism where there will be a central authority as well as local level competent authorities, who will be able to make final decisions on the identification of child victims of trafficking, for the purposes of the rights under this Convention.

Types of Exploitation

Children can be trafficked for the purpose of:

1. Sexual exploitation (e.g. child prostitution, child abuse acts and images)
2. Domestic Servitude (e.g. Domestic chores, looking after young children)
3. Labour exploitation (e.g. working in restaurants, building sites, cleaning)
4. Enforced criminally (e.g. Cannabis cultivation, street theft, drug dealing, and trafficking)
5. Benefit Fraud
6. Illegal adoption
7. Servile and underage marriage

• Even though a child may have been trafficked for a purpose other than sexual exploitation, they become highly vulnerable to physical and sexual abuse once they have been trafficked. Sexual exploitation of children is most likely to occur in informal locations, such as private flats. The use of trafficking for exploitative labour is often hidden within local communities and can be difficult to identify without the support of communities.
Child Traffickers

- Traffickers vary between those that are highly organised and linked to other organised crime (e.g. Cannabis Cultivation), and those that that individually opportunistic and have trafficked a child on a more informal basis (e.g. bringing a child from their ‘home country’ to become domestic labour in their own household).

- Children can be trafficked into the United Kingdom through major and regional airports, seaports and docks (e.g. on Lorries) and by train (e.g. Euro rail).

Child smuggling/facilitation and trafficking

There is an important distinction between child smuggling and child trafficking. Child smuggling, also called facilitation under UK law, is an arrangement whereby somebody assists a child to enter the country illegally. Once the child enters the UK the relationship between the child and smuggler ends.

Child trafficking however must involve intent to exploit the child at their destination and can also include the movement of a child within the UK. On arrival in the UK or after being moved to a new city or town within the UK the trafficked child is forced into exploitation by the traffickers or person into whose control they are delivered.

Smuggling can be an indicator of trafficking however, as traffickers do commonly use smuggling as a method to bring children into the UK. So while a smuggled child may not necessarily have been trafficked, smuggling should be considered as an indicator of a child’s vulnerability to being trafficked.

Please Note:

- Trafficking victims may also enter the country legally i.e. with immigration documents.

- Children who arrive at the UK Borders may have been trafficked between a number of countries in the EU or globally, prior to being trafficked in the UK.

UK Nationals

Smuggling and Trafficking can affect children born and raised in the UK (UK Nationals) e.g. a UK born child who is trafficked from the UK within the UK, this often referred to as “Internal Trafficking”.

REFERRAL AND INFORMATION GATHERING

All agencies should complete the assessment as soon as there is any suspicion that a child or young person may be a victim of trafficking. While an assessment should be completed within seven days, please note that any delay could significantly increase the chance of a trafficked child going missing. Where there is an immediate risk to the child’s safety an immediate referral should also be made to the Police and Children’s Services. All agencies should record next stages of action when working with a trafficked child within one working day.

Missing Children

Evidence shows that many unaccompanied asylum-seeking children are trafficked and go missing from the care system shortly after they enter the Care system. One reason us that the child may have been groomed to believe that the trafficker or facilitator is their ‘friend’ and not recognise the risk of harm and exploitation. It is therefore critical that intervention to safeguard the child may need urgent attention.
PRIVATE FOSTERING

Private fostering in Scotland is covered by the Foster Children (Scotland) Act 1984 and the Foster Children (Private Fostering) (Scotland) Regulations 1985. A private fostering arrangement arises when an individual arranges for a child under 18 years to reside for more than 28 days in the care of someone who is not a parent, adult relative or guardian. ‘Relative’ in relation to a child, means a grandparent, brother, sister, uncle or aunt whether of the full blood or half blood or by affinity. Parents have a duty to report the arrangements to the relevant local authority, who must inspect and monitor the accommodation and other aspects of the arrangements, although they do not formally assess and approve the carers as such.

Private fostering can potentially mask child trafficking, when traffickers use the arrangement to formalise having a trafficked child in their home as a ‘fostered’ child. It is therefore imperative that the possibility of child trafficking be considered in inspecting and monitoring the accommodation and other aspects of the arrangements.

ASSESSMENT

Children are unlikely to disclose they have been trafficked for a variety of reasons. Most do not have an awareness of what trafficking is or may believe they are coming to the UK for a better life, accepting that they may have entered the country illegally. They may be suffering from trauma, fear, intimidation and stigma and may lack language skills. They may not remember what has happened to them and give varying accounts.

Disclosure from the child about their circumstances takes time and often dependent on a relationship of trust and safety being established. Disclosure may be very limited where a child is within the control of a trafficker or facilitator or feels obliged to them and can be especially difficult for sexually exploited children.

Assessment should therefore be on the possibility of trafficking, utilising known indicators where relevant rather than relying on a full disclosure from a child. A high level practitioner awareness and proactive work is critical to enhance the identification of trafficking.

For information to support a good quality assessment professionals should see sections 3 and 7 of Safeguarding Children in Scotland who may have been Trafficked.

4. Circumstance in which or reasons why the young person left their family.

PLEASE ENSURE THAT YOU UPLOAD A GENOGRAM AND ATTACH TO THE FILE.
SECTION C RELATIONSHIPS

4. What is the quality of the relationship between the person/s and the child? (How does the child behave in relation to this person/s)

5. Does the child have any other relatives or friends in the UK? (Highlight where there are any other relationships where there is concern for the child).

6. Does the young person feel confident asking someone for help if needed: (Aim: to assess quality of relationship to the accompanying adult/young person).

7. Who would the young person like to live with in the UK? (Be mindful that a trafficker may have coached and put pressure on the child about where they should live). If not within the current arrangements explore the reasons why, (record the name and address of the person the y wish to live with)
SECTION D RECENT TRAVEL HISTORY
TO BE COMPLETED BY ALL AGENCIES

Points to Note:
- Trafficking may occur at any stage throughout the child’s journey to or within the UK; it is not limited to the child’s final destination.
- Children who have been trafficked into the UK can be further trafficked internally within the UK.
- UK national children are also vulnerable to internal trafficking and may also be trafficked out of UK.
- A child may be trafficked into the UK through legitimate routes under passports and travel visas – though documentation can be finalised.
- A child may also be smuggled through covert routes into or within the UK may have no identification documentation.
- A child who has been trafficked may arrive in the UK alone or accompanied by an adult and/or other children. Some children will have had multiple experiences of trafficking. Children who have been trafficked before are at risk of being re-trafficked.

1. Establish the circumstance of arrival – if arriving in the UK did the child pass through immigration control; did the child have any documentation, contact numbers?

2. Does the child have any on going contact with the person who facilitated their travel into/within the UK?

3. On arrival in the UK, who took responsibility for the child and where did the child sleep?

4. Has the child lived at multiple addresses? With whom? (List all Previous and Current Addresses)
SECTION E CURRENT CIRCUMSTANCES
TO BE COMPLETED BY ALL AGENCIES

This section of assessment may provide an insight about possible types of exploitation for which the child may have been trafficked. Look for indications in the child’s daily life that demonstrated restrictions of the child’s independence and control mechanisms by another person.

An assessment of independence will of course need to recognise the cultural norm in which the child has grown up. It is essential that the child is provided with a sense of safety within the assessment process.

SECTION E1 – Current Accommodation

1. Describe the rooms/house they are staying at:

2. Do any other children/adults/family or visitors live at this accommodation? (Nature/History of Relationship)

3. What are the current sleeping arrangements? (Including are they locked in at Night)

4. Conditions of accommodation e.g. Heating, Running Water, Furnishings and Cleanliness?

5. Does the child have freedom of choice where they choose to live?

6. Does the child have to pay/do favours for the accommodation?

7. Does the child have control over his/her privacy and possessions?
SECTION E2 – Daily Living Routine

1. Describe the current routine e.g. Sleep Patterns, Self-Care, and Meal times – do they have sufficient food?

2. What activities did the child do at the home and what do they do now? Is the child spending time alone?

3. Who does the household chores e.g. cleaning, grocery shopping and cooking?

4. What sort of clothing/shoes does the child have? Who is responsible for washing the child’s clothing?

5. Is the child familiar with local services such as the shops and parks? Can the child identify where they have been to?
SECTION E3 – Freedom of Movement.

1. How did the child travel to the place of Assessment?

2. Is the child’s freedom of movement restricted?

3. Is the child able to have social contacts and friendships?

4. Does the child have free access to their accommodation (do they have keys)?

5. Does the child have a Mobile phone? (Who can the child contact and who contacts the child, who purchased the phone and who pays the bills?)
SECTION F – HEALTH

ALL AGENCIES TO COMPLETE QUESTION 1
CHILDREN’S SOCIAL CARE TO COMPLETE QUESTION 2 TO 5

1. Observations of the child’s physical presentation? (if seen more than one occasion note whether the child has more than one set of clothing)

2. Is the child registered with a GP? Has the child accessed the Health Service such as the Accident and Emergency Department?

3. Has the child ever taken medication? (In case of sexual exploitation give consideration to contraception and sexually transmitted infections)

4. Is the child currently experiencing any pain, have any injuries or have any concerns regarding their health? (Give consideration to any abuse).

5. History and current drug/alcohol use? (Are there any indications of dependency/misuse and drugging)?

- CHILD PROTECTION POLICE OFFICERS

The aim of this section is to identify whether the child is currently or potentially at risk of harm, and to elicit the children’s capacity to ensure their own safety.

2. Has the young person been involved in any criminal activity? Are there any indications of forced involvement or exploitation?

3. Question on other persons associated or involved with this child, who are they, what is their relationship with the child?

4. If the child were injured or ill what would they do?

5. Is the child ever left in their accommodation on their own?

6. What would the child do in an emergency? E.g. If there was a fire or an intruder in the home?

SECTION I – JOURNEY
TO BE COMPLETED BY ALL AGENCIES.

A trafficked child is unlikely to disclose clear and accurate information about their journey. In many cases the child will have been warned not to disclose particular information to protect agents and traffickers. Be aware that some journeys will involve complicated routes and many changes involving varied methods and travel such as Lorries, walking, cars and planes. Children may also be passed between agents and traffickers en route.

SECTION J – ANALYSIS, CONCLUSIONS AND RISKS
TO BE COMPLETED BY ALL THE AGENCIES.

Children who have been trafficked are often seen as illegal immigrants or sometimes as young offenders if they have been forced or coerced into criminal behaviour, rather than as victims of human rights abuses. Be aware that family reunification is not always viable and safe option. In responding to children who have been trafficked it is essential that the child is cared in a safe and secure environment. That the child’s physical and mental health needs are met, the child is given support to recover and that the risk of re-trafficking and further exploitation is minimised.
